R&M Office Concept

Contemporary interior fit-outs are evolving from a trade sector to a service sector. Consultancy and planning, combined with interface skills, coordination of the trades involved, and tight scheduling, all play an increasingly important role. More and more of our customers appreciate a complete solution coordinated by a single point of contact.

Apleona R&M Ausbau has recognised this trend, and constantly puts it into place in its staff training. The dry construction division as one of the main trades provides ideal points of contact for building contractors or architects.

R&M Office Concept provides a complete service for all aspects of fitting, and optimum management of building contractors. The vast experience of our civil engineers ensure that the processes run smoothly. This reduces costs and saves time, factors which are particularly relevant to tenant fit-outs, due to the shorter periods between concluding the contract and moving into the property. If required, we can also perform a tenant coordination function.

Our affiliation to the Apleona Group gives us access to a vast pool of engineers and enables us to take on even difficult projects at short notice.

Rely on more than 125 years of R&M quality.
